THE DAILY BULLETIN.

Published every afternoon and delivered in this city, the suburbs and Aberdeen by our carriers, at 6 CENTS a week.

It is welcomed in the households of men of both political parties, for the reason that it is more of a newspaper than a political journal.

Its wide circulation therefore makes it a valuable vehicle for business announcements, which we respectfully invite to our columns.

Indian Strategy in Business.

When the Carson and Colorado railroad treated for the right of way through the Indian reservation at Walker lake, Nevada, the Indians agreed to receive, in full pay, $700 and the free shipment forever over the road of any fish or other produce which they might wish to bring to market between Hawthorne and the Mound house. Walker lake is swarming with fine trout. When the new road reaches it the Indians will be the bosses of the fish market of the State. They say that if Mr. Yerington had known how many fish they can catch in a day he would never have entered into such a contract. The Indians laid their wires for this thing long ago, and when Mr. Yerington visited Walker lake they put up a job on him. They invited him to spend a day fishing, which he did, but gave him a bait which fish absolutely avoid. Several of the bucks also fished with him, some using no bait at all. The result of the day's toil was a small white-fish and a couple of half-pound trout. The savages pretended that the day's sport had been very fine, and got up a big dance in honor of the catch, remarking that the fishing had never been so good for years. In an unguarded moment he signed the fish contract.—Carson Appeal.

Electricity as a Propeller of Boats.

Another new application of electricity as a motor has been experimented in at Paris. M. G. Brouve, a well-known electrician, has devised a method of applying the electrical current to the propulsion of a boat, and the results have been eminently satisfactory. The experiments have been made on the Seine on several occasions with a small boat containing from two to six persons. The boat has five and a half meters long, one and a fifth broad, and weighs eighty kilogrammes. M. Trouve's electric motor consisted of a Siemens coil, which, by a simple but ingenious arrangement is made to transmit its power to a three-bladed screw at the stern of the boat. The motor itself is fixed on the upper part of the rudder, which it follows in its movements, as does also the screw. The motor, with its accessories, does not weigh more than five kilogrammes. In the center of the boat are arranged two bichromate of potassium batteries of six elements each, and with a total weight of twenty-four kilogrammes. The two batteries may be employed together or separately, and at night while the one is driving the screw, the other may be used for lighting purposes. M. Trouve's apparatus may be adapted to any boat, and there seems no reason whatever why it might not be so modified as to be applicable to vessels of much larger dimensions than that experimental one, which sailed against the current at the rate of one metre per second, and with it at the rate of two and a half metres. Experiments in navigation by electricity were made on the Neva in 1849 by Jacobi, but the method adopted had so many drawbacks as to be practically useless.—Pall Mall Gazette.

It is said that the sun, as a great central life-giving, heat-diffusing luminary, emits 2,300,000,000 times more heat than that which the earth receives. Or, the total amount of heat emitted by the sun is sufficient to melt a covering of solid ice around its body ten and a half miles thick in twenty-four hours.

A Boston brewer says that men in a brewery never get drunk, although they drink often, and gives as a reason that they stick to one kind of beer and do not mix their drinks.

The Geysers of Iceland.

The geysers are dying out, like thousands of others whose remains are scattered around the field on which they now are active. To-day there are but two geysers, unless you dignify the dozen of little bubbling streams that struggle up through the brick-colored mud in the neighborhood. The region about the geysers is like an immense poultice, and viewed comprehensively looks like a bad case of smallpox. Eruptions, great and small, pit and scar the whole surface. In some places the ground is baked hard, and in close vicinity to the great springs is covered with a vitreous coating like earthenware; in other places it is boggy and soft enough to sink waist deep. I have said that the old stories about the geysers may have been true when written, for the guides and natives inform me that within their recollection the spoutings have grown less frequent year by year, and I have not heard of anyone who has witnessed the great geyser active this season. At all events I did not see it. From the pit or basin of the great geyser clouds of vapor are for ever rising, and you can see them miles away as they float off in great banks driven by the wind. The crater of the great geyser is shaped exactly like a saucer, and in the center is the orifice out of which, when the thing is active, the water spouts up as high as eighty feet, they say. You can look down into it and see the water simmering, seeming to be every moment ready to leap into the air as it passes up and down in the flue. By a wise provision of nature things are so regulated here that those who go to see the great geyser are not entirely disappointed. The smaller geyser, called by the natives "stokkr" (the churn), can be made to vomit at pleasure. All that is necessary is to gather a few lumps of mud and turf from the grass that luxuriates around the outer rim of the basins and throw them down into stokkr's flue. As soon as they are down he begins to rumble and give signs of uneasiness, and he grunts and groans in dire discomfort. He seems to make an effort to digest the stuff, and then finally gives it up in disgust, throwing sods and turf up into the air, expending a great volume of steam and water in the effort. When the dose is particularly nauseating he throws up a column thirty feet high, and after seeing this all you have to do is give Pegasus rein and you can say you have seen the great geyser. A few feet, more or less, in the matter of height does not in the least impair the story of any traveler, and hence it happens that so many people have seen the great geyser.

A SERVANT GIRL, who had just been admonished by her mistress to be very careful in "washing up" the best tea things, was overheard, shortly afterward, in the back kitchen, indulging in the following colloquy, while in the act of wiping the sugar-basin: "If I was to drop this 'ere basin, and was to catch it, I suppose I shouldn't catch it; but if I was to drop it, and wasn't to catch it, I reckon I just should catch it."

A PRETTY girl out West told her beau that she was a mind-reader. "You don't say so!" he exclaimed. "Yes," said she, "you have it in mind to ask me to be your wife, but you are just a little scared at the idea." Their wedding cards are out.

AUNT MATILDA—"And do you study geography, Janet?" Janet—"Geography! I should think so, indeed!" Aunt Matilda—"Where's Niagara falls?" Janet—"Niagara falls! Oh, we haven't got as far as that. We've only got as far as Asia."

The victims of the Vienna disaster are officially stated at 794.

The new Branch Kentucky penitentiary has been located at Eddysville.

The report of an immense foreign wheat crop led to a depression of the Chicago market.

SIXTEEN new cases of small-pox were reported to the Board of Health at Cincinnati, Monday.

The firm of J. T. Warren & Co., wholesale dealers in foreign fruits, fancy groceries and tobacco, at Cincinnati, made an assignment on Monday.

The Western Tobacco Journal says: The prevalence of the symptoms characteristic of the tobacco trade at this season, does not afford conclusive evidence of a dull market for the coming year. On the contrary, according to past experience, reaction will ensue with the resumption of business in other relations, and it may be safely predicated that despite high prices the tobacco trade for the coming year offer ample scope for business tact.

REFERRING to the tariff discussion in the Senate, the American Register says: It is, in one sense, highly suggestive. The manifest purpose of the protectionists is to stave off and resist any amendment to the tariff laws until they have had an opportunity of using the protection argument in another Presidential election. The advocacy, by certain protection Senators, of a commission of experts to revise our tariff system, means only that all revision of the tariff is to be resisted under the pretence of correcting the palpable wrongs and defects under which the people are now groaning. This system of revising the tariff is a sham and a delusion, and is introduced solely to throw dust in the eyes of the people. It is a plan of revision not intended to revise, but to continue and perpetuate our present monstrous and most unequal tariff, and we trust that the Democrats in Congress will resist it to the bitter end. Their opposition may not secure everything that is desired, but they can at least leave the subject open for discussion, and our tariff laws open for amendment.

The object of the protectionists is obvious. If permitted to pass their bill for the appointment of a commission of experts by the President, the whole subject will be consigned to the tomb of the Capulets, and all future attempts to amend or revise the tariff laws will be resisted on the ground that the whole subject has been confided to that commission, and until that august body makes a report, it will be improper for congress to take any action whatever in the premises. The way how not to do a thing is frequently made very plain, but we have rarely seen a device for that purpose made so palpably apparent.

The democrats in congress are charged with many high duties and grave responsibilities, but we know of none calling for the exercise of greater wisdom, patience, courage and fidelity than the matter now under consideration. If they will stand firm, however, they have it in their power to prevent great wrongs, though they may be powerless to accomplish many valuable purposes.

We confidently rely upon our political friends to do everything in their power to advance the common prosperity of the whole country, and thus promote the good of the greatest number of their countrymen.

SHE IS SAFE.

The Lost Ship Jeannette Found.

LONDON, December 20.—The Governor of Siberia has just issued a proclamation announcing that the Arctic voyage ship, the Jeannette is safe, with all on board well, and all her equipments intact.

The Governor who has taken for a long time special interest in Arctic explorations, caused an extraordinary searching party to be sent out to hunt for tracks of the Jeannette.

After ascertaining that the Jeannette was absolutely safe, that all on board were well and fully provided for, the Siberians hastened back to report the good news, for which the Governor had impressed upon them the whole scientific world was anxiously awaiting.

The Governor of Siberia at once dispatched special couriers with the news, to have it get to London with all possible speed, and it reached London a few minutes ago.

DAILY EVENING BULLETIN.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, DEC. 21, 1881.

A BOLD young fellow from the west,
Has been to us most cruel,
He pounced upon us unawares
And robbed us of a jewel.
He came, he said, "to ring a belle,"
This most ingenious pleader,
And ere we knew his true intent,
He carried off our Reeder.

YOUR welcome, Mistress Morning Mail,
We're very glad to know you
And pray, accept the compliments,
We do confess we owe you.
You're pretty as the morning star
That sparkles in the dome;
Now come and take your bonnet off
And make yourself at home.

PADDY PARKS, charged with petty larceny, was tried before Judge Wall Tuesday morning. He was found guilty and sent to the county jail for forty days.

THE protracted meeting at the old stone church on Lawrence Creek, closed Monday night. During the meeting eighteen persons united with the church.

THE members of the Building Association are expected to pay double dues next Saturday. This closes the business of the year. There will be no payment made Saturday night the 31st inst.

This morning a little after midnight while the Telegraph and W. P. Thompson were making a landing at Moscow, the former ran into the Thompson, and carried away the cook house of the latter. The damage was not serious.

J. L. MANKER, the architect, has just completed the drawings and specifications for the new depot at Helena Station. If constructed according to the plans we examined this morning, it will be the neatest and most convenient depot on the line of the road.

THE following marriage licenses were issued Tuesday:

Julia T. Harrison of Mason county, to James C. Cord, of Fleming County, Ky.
Alice N. Case to Jessie A. Cooper, both of this county.
Alice C. Reeder of this city to John G. Conkey of Kansas City, Mo.

THE new packet Morning Mail left Cincinnati this morning and arrived here this afternoon, after an easy run. Her machinery worked well and the boilers generated all the steam needed easily. She is a very handsome boat, and will prove very fast.

THE marriage of Miss Alice C. Reeder, to Mr. John G. Conkey, of Kansas City, Mo., was solemnized at the Presbyterian church at one o'clock this afternoon, the Rev. A. R. Kennedy, the pastor, and Rev. M. D. Reynolds, of the M. E. church, south, officiating. Miss Reeder is one of our most modest and unassuming young ladies and is greatly beloved in the community. The groom is of excellent family and a rising business man of Kansas City. They left for the West shortly after the ceremony. The BULLETIN extends its best wishes.

Important Enterprise.

A number of the leading business men of Maysville, at the head of whom is Mr. William Hunt, who has had a long experience in the manufacture of plug tobacco and cigars, propose to organize a joint stock company for the purpose of manufacturing these articles in this city, on a large scale. The company will have a capital of at least $50,000 and perhaps more. A suitable building for the business will be put in a convenient part of the city, and provided with all the needed machinery and appliances. The company will operate under a carefully prepared charter owned by Mr. William Hunt, and obtained from the Legislature in 1878. Books for the subscription of stock will be opened the first of January. The charter is as follows:

AN ACT, to incorporate the Maysville Tobacco Works.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, SEC. 1, That William Hunt and Charles H. White and such others as they may associate with them are hereby created a body politic and corporate under the name and style of the Maysville Tobacco Works, and by that name may sue and be sued and plead and be pleaded in any of the courts of law or equity in this State and may acquire and hold property real, personal or mixed to the extent and for the purposes hereafter provided and may have and keep a common seal and alter and change the same at pleasure.

SEC. 2, The capital stock of the said company shall not exceed the sum of five hundred thousand dollars to be subscribed in shares of one hundred dollars and when five hundred shall have been subscribed the said company may organize and commence business.

SEC. 3, The business of said company shall be the manufacture of tobacco in any and all the forms in which tobacco is or can be manufactured embracing particularly the manufacture of cigars, plug and fine cut chewing tobacco, smoking tobacco and snuff and said company may purchase and sell leaf tobacco and may acquire and hold all necessary real and personal property, machinery and vehicles for the effective prosecution of said business and sell and dispose of the same at its pleasure.

SEC. 4, The officers of said company shall be under the management and direction of a board of directors consisting of five stockholders one of whom shall be chosen President. The said board of directors to be elected by the stockholders at such time as may be agreed upon at a meeting for that purpose of which notice must be given, each share of stock to be entitled to vote. After the first election the directors shall be elected annually at such times as the laws of the company may fix. The directors so elected shall hold their offices for one year and until their successors are elected and qualified.

SEC. 5, The said board of directors shall have power to make by laws for the government of said company not inconsistent with the laws and constitution of this State or of the United States. They may appoint a clerk and treasurer and such other subordinate officers as the business of the company may require, employ workmen and agents for the sale of the products of the company and take from any and all such officers and employees, bonds with security conditioned for the faithful discharge of their respective duties and to account for all money or property of the company which may come to their hands.

SEC. 6, The stock of said company shall be deemed personal property and shall be transferable on the books of the said company. The said company shall have and retain a lien upon the share or shares of stock of any stockholders for any and all indebtedness of such stockholders to the said company until said indebtedness is fully satisfied and discharged, but the stockholders shall not be individually liable for the debts of the said corporation to an extent greater than the value of their stock in said company.

SEC. 7, The said company shall have the power to borrow money in any amount not exceeding the amount of the capital stock actually paid up for the purpose of carrying on its said business and may mortgage its property from the security of the same, or may issue its bonds bearing interest not exceeding eight per cent, payable at such time and place as may be determined by the board of directors, but no banking privileges are hereby granted, nor shall anything herein contained be so construed as to grant such powers.

SEC. 8, The board of directors shall cause to be kept a regular record in which shall be entered all their official proceedings; and they shall also cause to be kept by competent clerks, books of accounts in which shall be entered all the transactions in the course of the business of the company and this record and their books shall at all reasonable times be subject to the inspection of the stockholders upon application to the secretary.

SEC. 9, This act shall take effect and be in full force from and after its passage.

BRITAIN'S RULERS.

The Kings and Queens of England—Length of the Reigns of the Several Houses.

The Norman line began with William the Conqueror; then came in succession the houses of Plantagenet, Lancaster, York, Tudor, Stuart, the Commonwealth, Stuart-Orange, Stuart and Hanover. William the Conqueror was the sixth sovereign of Normandy. Henry II., the first of the Plantagenets, was the son of Matilda of Scotland, a direct descendant of Edmund II., surnamed Ironside, who was the son and successor of Ethelred II., born in 989, and King of the Anglo-Saxons in 1016. Henry IV., as the last of the Plantagenets (Richard II.) left no children, was the eldest son of John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster, fourth son of Edward III., and of Blanche, daughter and heiress of Henry Plantagenet, Duke of Lancaster, great-grandson of Henry III. Edward IV., the first of the House of York, was descended from the fifth son of Edward III., as the Lancastrian Kings had descended from the fourth son of the same sovereign. Henry VII., the first of the Tudors, was a descendant of Henry V. James I. of England, and VI. of Scotland, was the son of Lord Darnley and Mary Queen of Scots, and his right to the succession rested on his descent from Henry VII., through his great-grandmother, Margaret. Charles II. was the second child among six of Charles I., and started anew the Stuart line at the restoration. Mary, who with William of Orange, ruled Britain, was a Stuart, as was also Anne, "the good Queen." George I., of the House of Hanover, was descended on his mother's side from James I. The following will show the length of the reigns of the several houses:

Years.
1066-1087	William I.
1087-1100	William Rufus.
1100-1135	Henry I.
1135-1154	Stephen.
